

About Ucoopla

1,000 characters

Ucoopla is Europe's first inter-university NGO, formed from the merger of Eclasio (the University of Liège's NGO) and ULB-Coopération (the Free University of Brussels' NGO), joined by the University of Mons. This ambitious initiative aims to pool the strengths of the academic world and international cooperation in order to better address major global challenges.

Active in 10 countries across 4 continents, Ucoopla develops projects co-created with its local partners around four key themes: sustainable food systems and natural resource management, the socio-professional integration of young people, equitable access to quality healthcare, and the promotion of critical and solidarity-based global citizenship.

Its unique approach lies in combining academic knowledge, practical experience and civic engagement to offer innovative, sustainable solutions rooted in local realities.
